A LETTER FROM THE CMSA PRESIDENT - David Bolton

Dear Fellow CMSA Members:

First, I would like to take a minute to thank everyone for making this year's CMSA Conference the best ever -- and what a memorable conference it was! Special recognition is due the CMSA Board, the local Conference Organizing Committee, sponsors California Missions Foundation and CyArk, the Presenters, the Vendors, the Attendees and our local hosts at the Presidio and at the Mission. Thank you to all for a job well done!

Historic Santa Barbara provided the perfect backdrop for the three day CMSA gathering, and venues El Presidio de Santa Barbara, Old Mission Santa Barbara, Casa de la Guerra, Santa Barbara High School and Montecito Country Club were ideal for the large attendance that we never imagined would be possible. An 11th hour move from the Mission to the High School for the Saturday papers became necessary to accommodate the highest attended CMSA Conference ever. But as they say, "it was a good problem to have".

Responses to the conference have been tremendous, and we look forward to organizing another successful CMSA event for you in 2014. Details for the next CMSA Conference will be revealed in the April Correo. Stay tuned, it will be at a very special place. Be sure to Save the Date: President's Day Weekend 2014.

"HABEMUS PAPAMI!, "TENEMOS PAPA!", "WE HAVE A POPE!"

It's been two days since word spread from Rome in many languages that the world had a new Pope -- number 266. And it turns out, a perfect "Missions" Pope if you will. Argentine Cardinal Jorge Bergoglio -- a Jesuit -- took the name of Francis in honor of St. Francis of Assisi - the respected symbol of the Order of Friars Minor, the "Franciscans". No two religious groups have meant more to the 450-year Missions history of the Americas than the Jesuits and the Franciscans.

The name Francis symbolizes poverty, humility, simplicity and rebuilding the Catholic Church. Today the new Pope proved that he believes in his name -- he told his fellow Argentines contemplating travel to Rome to visit him to not come, rather he asked them to donate the money to the poor. St. Francis would be proud.
Semana Santa in Guatemala

SEMANA SANTA - HOLY WEEK

An unusually early Easter or Pascua will bring Semana Santa, or Holy Week, festivities to us all early this year, just one week after winter officially ends.

Two of the most elaborate Holy Week celebrations I have seen are in Antigua, Guatemala where Processions parade through the historic former capital's cobblestone streets crossing over "alfombras" or carpets that residents elaborately create out of colored sawdust and use to cover the street in front of their house just prior to the Processions passing through their neighborhood and destroying the carpets.

Also, an unforgettable experience occurs every year in the northern Mexican state of Sinaloa, where ancient cultures of the local Mayo including the honoring of the sacred deer is combined with catholic traditions introduced by Jesuit missionaries more than 400 years ago. Three days of re-enactments and festivities, including the Danza de Venado or Deer Dance, relive the stations of the cross. Two unforgettable Holy Week experiences.

Enjoy the Holiday!

Kindest regards,

David Bolton

Two representatives from Instituto Nacional de Antropología e Historia (INAH), Jesús Jáuregui and Laura Magriña, traveled from Mexico City to present papers at the Conference.

The stately home of former Santa Barbara Presidio Comandante and former Alta California Treasurer José de la Guerra y Noriega was the backdrop for the Friday night CMSA Reception. A delicious meal was served, featuring freshly made Tamales, a variety of salsas, Frijoles Puercos (Peruvian beans with chorizo, salsa and cheese, prepared in the style of Sinaloa, Mexico), chicken in a savory and spicy sauce, coastal shrimp, farmer's market vegetables and an assortment of cheeses and dried meats, accompanied by outstanding local wine.

An air of authenticity was brought to the event by the participation of Los Soldados de Santa Barbara, The Native Daughters of the Golden West, and the Camino Real Dancers, all of whom dressed in authentic period costumes. The Native Daughters and the El Camino Real Dancers performed period dances, and live music was provided by Luis Moreno.

Reception attendees were treated to a special display at the Casa entitled: "Junipero Serra in Mexico: Five Missions in the Sierra Gorda de Queretaro." Dramatic images by professional photographer Jeffrey Becom and original pen and ink drawings by local artist Richard Perry highlight spectacular but little-known missions founded by Serra in the remote reaches of Mexico's Sierra Gorda region.

After the reception, CMSA presented John Warren's Farewell Concert at historic and picturesque Old Mission Santa Barbara. Maestro Warren's New World Baroque Orchestra, combined with special numbers from acclaimed performer Elisabeth Waldo, plus Los Soldados de Santa Barbara, period dancers and blessings from respected Chumash elder Ernestine De Soto and Old Mission Santa Barbara Guardian Father Richard made for a truly memorable Friday night CMSA extravaganza.
Because of the large turnout, Saturday’s full day of 26 papers was moved from Old Mission Santa Barbara’s Renewal Center to the historic Santa Barbara High School campus. The day kicked off with a complimentary continental breakfast provided by CyArk, and vendors set up their tables filled with interesting and useful mission-related items.
The rest of the day was filled with fascinating presentations, with featured speaker Rubén Mendoza presenting Illuminations at the Serra Missions and Presidios. In addition, presentations were given by other esteemed CMSA Conference presenters such as John Johnson, Jack Williams, and Russell Skowroneck.
The evening was capped off with a banquet and awards ceremony at the historic, mission-revival Montecito Country Club. Dr. Knox Mellon was honored with the CMSA President’s award for his eight years of exceptional leadership of the California Missions Foundation. Incoming California Missions Foundation Executive Director and CMSA President David Bolton also presented the Neuerburg Award for excellence in research to archaeologist Michael Imwalle at the Santa Barbara Trust for Historic Preservation and the Kimbro Award for outstanding service to Janet Bartel of Mission San Diego.

Two additional President’s Awards were given to longtime CMSA members and local Santa Barbara historical advocates Jeremy Hass (supporter and originator of Santa Barbara Presidio Restoration Project) and historian Mary Louise Days (supporter in the development of El Presidio de Santa Barbara State Park).
Sunday morning began with a Mass said by Thomas Lucas, S.J. in El Presidio de Santa Barbara Chapel and featured the use of Fray Serra’s chalice (borrowed from Our Lady of Sorrows Church in Santa Barbara). Following the Mass there was a colorful reenactment at the front of El Presidio of the raising of the cross in 1782 by Fray Junípero Serra.
Finally, the Docents and Living History gathering was held in the El Presidio de Santa Barbara Chapel on Sunday morning. CMSA Vice President Bettie Allen and CMSA Board Member Sue Ellen Moran helped to facilitate this meeting at which participants discussed their current programs and expressed desires for future innovations.

On Friday and Sunday there were walking tours of El Presidio de Santa Barbara State Historic Park conducted by Jarrell Jackman and Michael Imwalle. On Friday, there was a Mission Era Cooking Demonstration with David Bolton. A special treat at the Friday and Saturday lunches was the preparation of freshly made, authentic Sinaloan posole, featuring both chicken and pork.

SANTA BARBARA - CMSA President David Bolton honored five distinguished individuals at the CMSA Banquet held at the Montecito Country Club on Saturday evening, February 16. Three President's Awards were bestowed on Dr. William Knox Mellon, retiring leader of the California Missions Foundation; Mary Louise Days, a professional historian involved for decades in contributions to CMSA and support in the development of El Presidio de Santa Barbara State Park; and Jeremy Hass, an early supporter and originator of the highly successful Santa Barbara Presidio Project and founding president of the Early California Agriculture and Technology Society.

The 2013 Kimbro Award for outstanding service to CMSA and the California Missions was given to Janet Bartel, a 27-year volunteer at Mission San Diego de Alcala and founder of the Docent Program there in 1984. Janet also chaired the 2006 CMSA Conference in San Diego and served on the CMSA Board for six years, including four years in the office of treasurer.

The 2013 Neuerburg Award for excellence in research in mission and presidio-related areas was presented to Michael Imwalle, Associate Director of Archaeology at the Santa Barbara Trust for Historic Preservation and a researcher whose interests include California history and prehistory, Spanish Colonial archaeology, Spanish Colonial architecture, preservation of historic structures, adobe building materials, and the archaeology of standing buildings.
It was an honor to host the first ever CMSA cooking demonstration to open the recent Conference in Santa Barbara. The setting in the inner courtyard of the Presidio was perfect. I chose the dishes Mole and Machaca, two items that have history along the mission trail.

Mole

About seven years ago, I had the pleasure of attending a Mole seminar in Puebla, Mexico on Cinco de Mayo. Mole has been around since pre-Hispanic times. The Spanish brought new techniques and added some flavors to the ancient Moles of Mexico, like the introduction of cinnamon and the technique of sweetening cocoa by mixing in sugar. The word Mole comes from the Spanish verb, moler (to grind). Mole comes in a variety of styles, two of the most famous variations are Mole Poblano (from Puebla) and Mole Oaxaqueño (from the Oaxaca region). Both of these Moles, like many others, are complex and include upwards of 20 ingredients. There are green moles, spicy moles, more chocolate moles, and the list goes on. Key to any mole is a thickening ingredient, and some kind of chile. For the CMSA Cooking Demonstration, I chose a 7 ingredient mole that I learned in the northern Mexican state of Sinaloa. This Mole is a traditional Mexican mole and is quite easy to prepare in your own kitchen. Give it a try!

INCREMENTS

4 butter crackers (the thickening agent)
4 dried Pasilla chiles, seeded and de-veined
2 Roma tomatoes seeded, cored and diced
Chocolate -- I used a chunk of Abuelita Chocolate
Chicken broth
2 sticks cinnamon
Olive oil
Salt

In a saucepan, add the oil, heat and lightly toast each of the ingredients separately and then remove to a blender once toasted. Do not overcook the items.

Blend and add the chicken broth. Once everything is mixed well, return to the saucepan with a little heated oil. Lightly sautee.

The Mole can be served over any dish and is best with cooked chicken pieces and rice.

MACHACA

Machaca is a dried, salted meat that originated in the northwest of Mexico in the states of Sinaloa and Sonora during Mission times as the settlers needed a way for meat to last along the mission trail. To make the machaca, thinly slice red meat into large pieces. Salt and dry in the hot sun. Once dried, cook slightly over coals. Then the meat is shredded to make Machaca. The best Machaca today continues to come out of the Northwest corner of Mexico. Often it is brought up to the states for re-sale. Inquire at your local Mexican supermarket, or ask around your local Latino community. Eventually you'll find a person who brings the machaca to the states for re-sale. Don’t worry about spoilage. The technique, similar to how the Portuguese prepare salt cod, gives Machaca a very long life.

Preparing Machaca:

INGREDIENTS:
Machaca
Roma tomatoes (seeded, cord and diced)
Green fresh pasilla chils (seeded and de-veind)
White onion, diced
Oil

In a sautee pan, lightly toast the machaca in oil but do not over cook. Then add all of the ingredients and continue to sautee. The juice from the tomatoes prevents the dish from drying out. The onions and green chile add flavor. Once the vegetables are tender, the machaca is ready to serve.

Best with corn or flour tortillas.

Enjoy these two dishes, and please feel free to contact me with any questions. I am already looking forward to next year’s CMSA cooking demonstration!

CASA DE LA GUERRA EXHIBIT: JUNIPERO SERRA IN MEXICO: FIVE MISSIONS IN THE SIERRA GORDA DE QUERETARO - FEBRUARY 2 - APRIL 28

From the Blog colonialmexico

Twenty Thirteen marks the 300th anniversary of the birth of Father Junípero Serra, known as the Apostle of California. Prior to his pioneering work among the missions of Alta and Baja California, Father Serra was instrumental in establishing and building a group of missions in the remote Sierra Gorda region (Querétaro) of central Mexico.

These lesser known churches, noted for their spectacular painted and sculpted "folk baroque" fronts, are the subject of a traveling exhibit by photographer Jeff Becom, a specialist in capturing the colorful architecture of the Americas.

Taken before the veiling of these facades with protective black netting, these photographs accurately capture the details and hues of the original reliefs.

The exhibit will include a suite of original drawings of the Sierra Gorda missions by Richard Perry.

Entitled Junípero Serra in Mexico: Five Missions in the Sierra Gorda de Querétaro, the show will open in Santa Barbara, California on Saturday, February 2nd at the historic Casa de la Guerra and run through April 28.
In 2013, Mission followers around the world will join in the celebration of the 300th Anniversary of legendary Fray Junípero Serra's birthday and birth year.

CMSA kicked off the year-long festivities with its annual Conference, February 15-17, 2013 in Santa Barbara - the last place Serra raised the founding cross as he established what he noted was 'the founding of the Presidio and Mission' at Santa Barbara.

Additionally, events commemorating this special 300th anniversary will be held throughout the year from Mallorca, Spain -- Serra's birthplace -- to Querétaro, Mexico and Alta California -- places of Serra's famed missionary work.

Here in Correo, we plan to keep you up-to-date with the latest calendar of events celebrating the 300th birthday and birth year of who many call the Father of Alta California's missions.

Please let us know of Serra related events in your area so that we can keep everyone informed. Email us anytime at JuniperoSerra300@ca-missions.org

As Serra so often said, Siempre Adelante, Nunca Atras ... Always Forward, Never Back

It will be a memorable year in 2013. Please join in the festivities.

The 300th anniversary of the birth of one of the most influential, yet least understood, figures in California history will be marked by a major exhibition at The Huntington Library, Art Collections, and Botanical Gardens. With more than 200 objects drawn from The Huntington's collections and some 50 international lenders, "Missions, Myths, and Memories: The Life and Legacies of Junípero Serra" will be the first exhibition to present an in-depth portrait of the founder of the California mission system.

It will examine the Early Modern Catholic worlds of Spain and Mexico where Serra (1713 -1784) was born, lived, and worked; the ways in which Native American life and culture were at the center of Serra's missions; and the emergence of competing versions of Serra's legacy through time.

The exhibition will coincide with the publication of Father Junípero Serra: California's Founding Father (Hill & Wang) by exhibition co-curator Steven Hackel, professor of history at the University of California, Riverside and CMSA Board Member.

ALONG THE MISSION TRAIL - EL CAMINO REAL MISSION WALKERS - MISSION SAN LUIS OBISPO TO MISSION SANTA BARBARA - MARCH 5 - 13

Martha Lopez of El Camino Real Mission Walkers describes her group’s plan for a walk from Mission San Luis Obispo to Mission Santa Barbara in March:

"In recent months a small but growing number of individuals, many of us veterans of the Camino de Santiago pilgrimage in Spain, have begun walking el Camino Real de California. At least three individuals have made the entire 800 mile trip on foot. Our goal is to foster the development of a trail connecting all 21 California missions. The responses we are getting from people and organizations all along the route is very heartening. Additionally, several of us have joined the California Mission Studies Association, and the contacts made at the two most recent conferences in Santa Barbara and San Rafael have been very helpful.

"The attached itinerary gives you an overview of our plans, daily activities, and goals for this particular walk."

ALONG THE MISSION TRAIL - ANZA SOCIETY CONFERENCE - MONTEREY - MARCH 7 - 10

The Eighteenth Annual International Conference of the Anza Society was held in Monterey, California on March 7-10, 2013

ALONG THE MISSION TRAIL - EXHIBIT OF EDWIN DEAKIN’S 21 MISSIONS IN WATERCOLOR - SULLIVAN GOSS GALLERY - SANTA BARBARA - MARCH 7 - JUNE 30, 2013

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE 1/29/13

ALONG EL CAMINO REAL: Edwin Deakin's Twenty-One Missions in Watercolor
Sullivan Goss marks its 29th year in the business with an historic exhibition of twenty-one watercolor paintings of each of California's historic Spanish missions created between 1897-1900 by Edwin Deakin (1838-1923). Exhibited perhaps just once in over a century at the Los Angeles Museum of History, Science, and Art in 1966, these watercolors have been held privately by just two owners outside the artist's family and appear as fresh today as the day they were painted.

Edwin Deakin arrived in San Francisco in 1870 to make his way as an artist. Instrumental in creating a vibrant arts community in early San Francisco, he became famous for his landscapes, still lifes of grapes, and European architecture paintings before he committed himself to recording all twenty-one of California's historic Missions in paint. Between 1897 and 1900, he became the first artist to record all twenty-one missions with three full sets - two in oil and one in watercolor. The first set in oil now resides at the Los Angeles Museum of Natural History. The second set in oil, created in case the first was damaged, now resides at the Santa Barbara Mission Archive Library.

The watercolors were intended to be published in a book, and towards that end, the artist created a hand-done title page for each mission, a title page for the book, and a map illustrating the location of each and that of the historic Camino Real. All of the missions as well as these supporting works will be exhibited and offered for sale as a lot.

In 1951, Santa Barbara resident Howard Willoughby was able to purchase this cache directly from the descendants of the artist. They were eventually brought to the attention of Paul Mills, former director of both the Oakland Museum and the Santa Barbara Museum of Art, who contributed foundational scholarship on Deakin and helped shepherd Deakin's legacy into public collections. In 2008, his mission was realized when the Crocker Museum created a full retrospective with catalog. While part of Willoughby's collection helped build the Oakland Museum's collection of California art, the watercolors were held back, waiting to be published in book form, as per the terms of the original acquisition.

Sullivan Goss is exceedingly proud to be able to show a historic national treasure. The exhibition will be supported by other historic works by artists like Edward Potthast, Alexander Harmer, Henry Chapman Ford, Lockwood de Forest, Nell Brooker Mayhew, Anders Aldrin, Orpha Klinker, Wayne Lacom, and others.

You can see an on-line preview of the entire exhibition at: http://www.sullivangoss.com/Exhibits/deakins_missions.asp

ALONG THE MISSION TRAIL - MISSION DOLORES AND POPE FRANCIS ON TODAY’S CBS EVENING NEWS - MARCH 13 - FROM ANDY GALVAN

Go to this link for a local San Francisco story (starting at 7.55 minutes into the video) about Mission Dolores and Pope Francis:

Hopefully, this will be the Pope who traces the halo of Saint around the head of Blessed Junipero Serra. stay tuned....Andy
Dear One and All:

Mission Dolores and CyArk received some great coverage this Monday morning in several of the local papers. We made the front page of the Oakland Tribune, Contra Costa Times and the San Jose Mercury News.

The daily readership of these papers is over 500,000 and it is ranked the 6th largest paper in the US.

The same company also owns several other papers such as the Marin Independent Journal and the Santa Cruz Sentinel so it is likely we received coverage there as well.

That's Mission San Francisco de Asis....

The Museum of Monterey announces The Year of the Missions, a cycle of exhibitions focusing on missions in central Mexico, coastal California, and the American Southwest.

Curated by Dr. Julianne Burton-Carvajal for the 2nd floor gallery, the series will launch on Saturday, November 24, 2012 and conclude on the same date in 2013 - the tricentennial of Serra’s birth.

The intervening year will feature commemorative events throughout California as well as in Serra’s native island of Mallorca and the regions of Mexico (then the Viceroyalty of New Spain) where he trained and embraced his first missionary assignments between 1750 and 1769.
The exhibition cycle begins with Junípero Serra & Company Before California: Their Five Folk-Baroque Missions in Central Mexico - Photographs by Jeffrey Becom, Line Drawings by Richard Perry (through January 20).

The remaining three exhibitions in the series emphasize the California mission heritage:

Riding the Mission Trail in 1903 with Artist-Cowboy Jo Mora: Sketches, Watercolors, and Journal Excerpts (January 26 - April 28);

Missions of California & the Southwest:

The Final Series Painted by Will Sparks between 1934 and 1937 (May 4 - July 28);

From Ruin to Restoration: California's 18th Century Mission Legacy Meets 21st Century Conservation Techniques (August 3 - November 24, 2013).

The 14th Colony: An NEH Summer Workshop for K-12 Teachers
[Monterey, CA] The “Fourteenth Colony” is devoted to the exploration of the Spanish colonial missions of California’s storied Monterey Bay. Two six-day residential workshops spanning the weeks of July 7 through 13, and July 13 through 19, 2013, will address the tumultuous and often controversial era of The Fourteenth Colony: California Indians, Missions, Presidios, and Colonists on the Hispanic Frontier, 1769-1848. This program will consist of historic landmarks tours and lectures, art history and indigenous food and culture orientations, discussion forums, and traditional craft and technology demonstrations presented by community scholars, museum curators, musicians, and leading scholars of California and Southwest Spanish colonial mission studies.

Faculty and community scholars participating in this NEH workshop program were selected with an eye to enhancing the learning experience of participating teachers. A preeminent group of archaeologists, art, architectural, and social historians, musicologists, conservators, curators, linguists, religious and community scholars directly engaged in Mission studies have committed to participating in the NEH Landmarks of American History and Culture Summer Workshops for School Teachers in the California missions.

K-12 Teacher Eligibility

We seek a diverse cohort of eighty K-12 teachers to participate in this NEH Landmarks of American History and Culture Workshop for School Teachers. Awardees receive a $1200 stipend for their stay on the Monterey Bay, and will be afforded opportunities for professional development, collegial interaction, and access to noted scholars and fellow educators. The program as such will consist of historic landmarks tours, art history and indigenous food and culture orientations, and lectures and discussions.

We will convene our workshops in beautiful Monterey Bay at the Asilomar Conference grounds. A National Register of Historic Places landmark, Asilomar is located within the forested coastal environs of Pacific Grove (http://www.visitasilomar.com/). Asilomar and the Monterey Bay thereby provide an incomparable setting for exploring European-American Indian contact, as well as the subsequent Spanish Mission and Mexican eras, and early American developments of the region. We are thrilled to host the NEH American Landmarks of American History and Culture Workshops for School Teachers summer program on the Monterey Bay. We will treat participants to guided tours and demonstrations within the historic California landmarks of San Juan Bautista, San Miguel, San Antonio, San Carlos Borromeo, and the Royal Presidio of Monterey. Over the course of six days a stellar group of regional and national specialists in Spanish mission and Native Californian studies, including internationally and regionally renowned experts and community scholars, will lead key lectures and discussions.

Annual Easter exhibition of modernist and contemporary works depicting the missions and moradas of New Mexico, with prints, paintings, drawings, and photography. Artists include Morris Blackburn, Howard Cook, Lucille Leggett, Ralph Pearson, Craig Varjabedian, Theo White.

In addition to a great selection of modernist works, this year's exhibition features the work of contemporary photographer Craig Varjabedian, who's Morada Photographic Survey earned an award from the National Endowment for the Arts. Varjabedian's association with the Penitente Brotherhood also lead to the publication of an award-winning book and a PBS documentary that won an Emmy.

A unique culture of northern New Mexico and southern Colorado, the Penitente Brotherhood is a lay confraternity that arose after Mexican independence in 1821 when Spanish missionaries left the area. In the mid-nineteenth century, the region... became an American territory and the Penitentes were compelled to continue their practices in private. And so their meeting houses arose in discrete locales, with their humble forms echoing their pious intentions. Varjabedian’s quintessential photographs subtly convey the evocative spirit of these structures with within their powerful landscape settings.

The village of Chimayo’s history of fervent devotion extends back centuries. A number of images in the exhibition come from the area of Chimayo, which to this day remains a pilgrimage site, especially during holy week.
